

ULTIMATE ADVENTURES

Where to Stay and Explore This National Trails Day on June 3rd

May 15, 2023 By: Editor

Every year, on the first Saturday in June, hikers, bikers and outdoor enthusiasts take time to appreciate the local trails that make their backyards so special. This public day of celebration is a reminder of the important role we play in caring for our Earth and leaving each trail better than we find it. Here are some top destinations across the country to explore new trails this National Trails Day on June 3rd and gorgeous places to stay.

Ponderosa State Park | McCall, Idaho (pictured)

Sitting atop the world at an elevation of 5,000 feet, McCall offers undiscovered adventures for those planning to get outdoors this summer and celebrate National Trails Day. Long beloved by those who have discovered it, the quaint resort town sits on the western edge of Valley County, Idaho, just 2.5 hours outside Boise. With over 500 hiking trails in the area ranging from easy to moderate and varying in length from one to twelve miles, outdoor enthusiasts will find a perfect excursion for every level of hiker. Ponderosa State Park, located less than two miles from downtown McCall, also provides over 1,515 acres of land for exploration, with picturesque trails and views of Payette Lake.

- Where to Stay: Shore Lodge is an award-winning lakefront resort in McCall, Idaho, backdropped by scenic views of rugged mountains and glacier-carved lakes. Guests staying at Shore Lodge can use the resort's complimentary shuttle to take them to local trailheads, and the team concierge can provide maps and even help arrange a packed lunch for a day out on the trail. For those looking to take advantage of the long summer days at a stunning mountain retreat, look no further than Shore Lodge, embodying the spirit of the destination – peaceful, authentic, and vibrant.