While you're in the throes of wedding planning, spending quality time together might take a backseat. We're here to remind you to set aside planning every once in a while and prioritize your relationship. One way to do that? Visit one of the most romantic getaways in Idaho.

Idaho's natural beauty and exciting cities make it the perfect spot for a romantic weekend getaway. Whether you're seeking a luxury hotel with top-tier amenities or a cozy cabin surrounded by nature, there are dozens of options to choose from. We've rounded up a few of our favorites here so you can relax, unwind and remember why you got together in the first place.

Shore Lodge, McCall, Idaho

The self-proclaimed ultimate destination for sanctuary-seekers is perfect for those who want to spend their romantic weekend getaway in Idaho surrounded by nature. Shore Lodge is nestled in the Salmon River Mountains, just two hours from Boise. Enjoy access to Payette Lake, a heated pool, two hot tubs, a firepit, kayaks, canoes, SUP boards, a fitness studio and a complimentary shuttle. The on-site spa features private hot-springs-inspired saltwater immersion pools. They also have multiple restaurants, including a delicious steakhouse.

Things to do: Go offroading through the historic backcountry on ATVs, go white water rafting, go climbing, and go looking for elk, deer, moose or even bald eagles.
